TUSCANY

Relais San Pietro in Polvano

Love is evident in every stone of this 300-year-old farmhouse, carefully restored and run with a passion for perfection by the gently hospitable Protti family. Solid country furniture, kilims and cream furnishings with modern touches work well with the building's bricked archways, terracotta floors and heavy beamed ceilings. Feel big-city stress melt away as you make yourself at home in the calming white-walled bedrooms with their wrought-iron beds, white bedspreads, oriental rugs and wooden painted furniture. On winter nights, cosy up near a log fire; on long summer days, feast on the views from the open terrace and wonderfully private pool. Renaissance artists could not have painted a more idyllic scene than the rolling Tuscan hills dotted with medieval villages, olive groves and pencil-sharp cypress trees that surround the tiny hamlet of Polvano, snuggled between Arezzo and Cortona. With a ban on TVs, smoking and under-12s, this is a place designed to soothe the soul. It's also tailor-made for honeymoons – before or after the wedding!

Love time The almost monastic simplicity of the bedrooms simply begs you to sin.
Love bites Freshly baked bread and green-gold olive oil from the Relais' own olive groves are the start of mouthwatering dinners of traditional Tuscan food, served in the fetching former stables or on the terrace.
Love it up Walk, ride, play tennis. It's also a great base for exploring historic Tuscany.

Bellissimo! Dreamily romantic gem bedded in the Tuscan hills.
